The Buntyn HOMESTEAD LANDS FOR SALE.

WE have the pleasure of placing on the market three very desirable and valuable lands, so well known to the community as the Homestead Tract of the late Gerardus Buntyn, Esq., situated at the first station on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, five miles from the city. The improvements, with ease, twenty acres of land, have been recently upon the premises. The balance of the tract, containing about 80 acres, is fronting upon broad avenues, and laid out in lots of convenient size from one to ten acres, affording the greatest facilities for cultivation. These lands of the Memphis market, and afford the opportunity of going in and ? ? ?

OUR PLATFORM.

LOYALTY to the Union of the STATES: FIDELITY to the Constitution in its true extent and meaning: Obedience to and maintenance of all laws, State and National, constitutionally enacted.

RESISTANCE to Tyranny, Usurpation and Oppression, of one man or many; and to all encroachments upon the rights of freemen or of States, or upon the just and Constitutional prerogatives of any Department of the State or National Governments.

RESTORATION of disfranchised citizens to all rights and privileges of which they have been dissolved.

PERPETUAL ASSURANCE to the colored race of all the rights of freemen.

NO REPUDIATION by State or Nation of any honest debt.

NO ESTABLISHMENT of Military Despotisms, no enthroning of martial law, no suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus, no slaying of citizens by Military Commissions, no lettres de cachet, in time of peace.

STRICT SUBORDINATION of the Military to the Civil Power.

NO STANDING ARMIES of States in time of peace.

APPROVAL of the efforts of the President to prevent the annihilation of civil liberty by the revolutionizing of the Government, and to restore the Union of the States; and of all that he has done to defend the Constitution and to maintain the rightful supremacy of the civil law; and charity and allowance for what he has left undone or done amiss.

CONSIDERATIONS FOR THE PEOPLE OF ARKANSAS.

"THE WORDS OF TRUTH AND SOBERNESS."

"It is true that most men are apt enough to civil wars and commotions as a novelty, and for a flash hot and active; but through sloth and inconstancy, and weakness of spirit, either fainthe ere their own prevalence, though never so just, be half attained, or through an inbred falsehood and wickedness, betray, ofttimes to destruction with themselves, men of noblest temper joined with them for causes whereof they in their rash undertakings were not capable."

Milton.

It may perhaps be conceded that, as we had lived and laboured in ARKANSAS during nearly thirty years, when the late civil war commenced, content to be a private citizen, and never seeking office, and as we shared her fortunes throughout the war, we may without impropriety venture to address ourself especially to her citizens, upon a topic of general and engrossing interest, on which men may well differ without impugning the motives of each other.

"The effects of tyranny low sit heavy on the Commonwealth," in all of our Southern States; and Tennessee does not find her load lightened by her re-admission into the Union. We profoundly regret to learn that in all probability a large majority even of the thinking men in Arkansas, who embraced the cause of Southern Independence in 1861, and struggled, in arms and otherwise, until June, 1865, to achieve that independence, will unite in the wretched work of reconstruction and accept the negroes of the State as their political equals.

We do not quote from MILTON the sentence that precedes this article, in order to apply it either to the people of Arkansas, or to those, the loyalty to principle and the manliness and courage of many of whom cannot be doubted, who advise those of her people who stood by her and the South in the great struggle, to yield to the burthen of tyranny that weighs so heavily on her, and accept the ungenerous terms dictated by the insolence of licentious power, lest worse should come of it, in the shape of disfranchisement and confiscation.

We admit the force of the arguments that are thus used to influence the people to take such action as we cannot but believe will prove their undoing. There is always an immense force in arguments that are addressed to the fears and apprehensions of the people, and in considerations of expediency and temporary advantage, when there are dangers to be met and loss to be certainly incurred, in following with unfaltering steps the plain but rugged road of Duty. But we cannot convince ourselves that these arguments are conclusive, or that, when weighed against others and judged of by comparison with the glorious precedents of past heroism, they ought to govern the conduct of the people of Arkansas. If they had always proven irresistible, all who have died as martyrs of the Right and the Truth would have purchased safety by apostacy; and the lover of liberty would have always helped the Tyrant to enslave his country, because his doing so even without such assistance was inevitable, and the punishment of refusal would be confiscation, disfranchisement and exile.

Let not those who are advising submissive co-operation in the work of reconstruction take offence at this illustration, but rather calmly reflect whether it is not a plain statement of the very issue now presented to the people. We do not write it in any offensive sense, but to prove to them that they are in error. Let them also ask themselves whether, when History shall hereafter judge coldly and impartially of the transactions of to-day, it may not, without being ungenerous, use the same illustration. The Christian captive, held in chains and subjected to servile labour by the Algerine, has sometimes yielded to the certainty of the bastinado or of death, if he steadfastly refused to become a renegade and adopt the Moslem faith: but more often he has refused, and borne with patience and heroic fortitude all that cruelty could inflict, rather than apostatize.

Will not history decide that the certainty of the success of the usurper or the many swords of the mob, could be no justification or excuse to the patriot for

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The president will send to-morrow to the senate for ratification a commercial treaty recently negotiated with Venzuela. It is also probable that he will send a message to to the house, asking for an appropriation to pay for the purchase of Russian America.

The French minister gave a dinner party Saturday evening to several senators and members, among them Senators Sumner and Anthony.

The memorial of the Wisconsin Publisher's association in favor of the repeal of the duties on paper, has been presented in the house and laid on the table until the committee on ways and means is appointed.

The president will send to congress tomorrow a communication from the secretary of war, asking for an additional appropriation to meet expenses incurred in the law in enforcing the reconstruction act.

To Builders.

THE undersigned proposes to divide fifty or one hundred acres of his land into small lots—say, of five acres each—and to give the alternate lots in payment for improvements constructed upon the others.

The land is situated three miles east of the city of Memphis, at the terminus of Union avenue, fronting on the extension of that avenue, on Trezevant avenue, and on the Poplar street road. It is covered in part with a beautiful growth of forest trees, and is unsurpassed in any other suburban property in point of health, building sites, and the character of the surrounding neighbors.

In undertaking this enterprize builders can, in addition to their usual profits, calculate with certainty on the enhancement of the value of the lots paid them, by the improvement of those adjoining.

Apply to Roysler, Trezevant & Co., Ayres building, 276 Second street, or to me at their office. jy9 1m N. M. TREZEVANT.

Educational.

BY the action of the Trustees of the

Brownsville Female Academy and the Crawford Institute,

the two Schools have been consolidated.

The buildings and grounds belonging to them will be thoroughly repaired and can accommodate from 200 to 300 pupils. A liberal patronage can be commanded, and the Trustees are determined to build up a first class Female School. They wish to engage a competent Principal, with a corps of Teachers for the Literary Department. At the head of the Musical Department is a Professor who has been successfully been connected with the Schools for the last two years. The attention of well qualified candidates for a permanent situation is solicited. Applications with vouchers will be considered until the first August next.

BROWNSVILLE

Is eligibly located, being directly on the line of the Memphis and Louisville Railroad; good society, boasting of a population of 3000 inhabitants. Town and county in a prosperous condition, having escaped the ravages of the late war. Address the undersigned.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men every where to study their own interests, and right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money by the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and it is no more explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even White Cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and Milwaukee, if we cannot prove all, and every more, than we have stated. A single county in a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold wealth.

PATRONS OF THE SOUTHERN ASYLUM.

I would most respectfully inform my friends and acquaintances that I have no interest or connection with the SOUTHERN ASYLUM, and am no longer a director, and am not responsible for the manner in which its affairs may be conducted. JOHN AINSLIE.

NEWS IN BRIEF.—The metropolitan police made 14,570 arrests during the year ending June 30th.

—There were only fourteen cases in police court yesterday—all uninteresting.

—An interesting revival of religion is in progress in the Chelsea Baptist church.

—Business was very dull in police and magistrates' circles yesterday.

—Alderman Johnson left for the north yesterday, to be absent several weeks.

—The colored people celebrated the fourth in Holly Springs, Miss.

—Will the city authorities do something to improve the sanitary condition of the city?

—Fifteen hundred persons in Tishomingo county, Miss., have been thus far unable to register their names.

—Robert Cox, for assaulting a colored woman on the levee, was fined $25 yesterday.

—An attempt to burglariously enter the dwelling at No. 105 Monroe street, early yesterday morning, was frustrated by the firing of a pistol, and the rapid decamping of the scoundrels.

—A pedagogue who not a thousand years since achieved some notoriety in consequence of an exceedingly manly and chivalric action, was the recipient yesterday, at the hands of one whose province it was to act in the matter, of a blow between the eyes, and would doubtless have been well punished but for the execution a "masterly retreat" within doors, and an instantaneous locking thereof.

THE FIRE.—The fire early yesterday morning was in the Overton block, a small building being consumed. The loss was trifling.

DIVIDEND.—The directors of the German National bank of Memphis have declared a dividend of five per cent., less government tax.

SOUTHERN AID FESTIVAL AT NEW MADRID, MO.—We learn that one evening last week the ladies of New Madrid, Mo., gave a southern aid festival, which netted $350 for southern sufferers.

CHELSEA BAPTIST CHURCH.—The pastor of this church will hold service every night this week. The congregations are good, and the interest is deep and pervasive. All interested in the cause of religion are invited to attend.

FRIENDLY SONS OF ST. PATRICK.—The adjourned meeting of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick will be held this evening in their hall in the Odd Fellows' building at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is requested, as business of importance will be introduced.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street, have received the Waverley Magazine, Album, New York Citizen, Weekly Times, Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, Army and Navy Journal, American Union, London News, London Daily Times, The Wanderer, American Law Review, for July, and the Southern Opinion.

HERNANDO INSURANCE COMPANY. The election for directors in the Hernando Insurance company on 8th inst., resulted in the election of the following gentlemen: A. Vaccaro, S. B. Williamson, Henry Laird, S. H. Dunscomb, M. L. Meacham, E. McDavitt, D. H. Townsend. At a meeting of the directors S. B. Williamson was elected president and Ben. May secretary. The office of the company is at 17 Madison street.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN THIS AFTERNOON.—The board of aldermen will meet this afternoon at two o'clock to further consider the paving question unless some member desires to fire a few more strategic bombshells. There is little doubt that the contract will be closed with the Forrest-Montgomery party, and so far the whole matter, however decided, will be thrown into litigation, to the detriment of the public interests, which loudly call for pavements.

THE HERNANDO INSURANCE CO.—The Hernando was well known to our "old" citizens before the war as a home institution, and it affords us pleasure to inform our readers that it still lives, and that Ben. May, so long known as the popular and able cashier of the Bank of West Tennessee, is the secretary. It will be seen by their advertisement in another column, that the directors are gentlemen whose names and past record are sufficient guarantee that the affairs of the company will be ably and honestly managed. As a home institution, we hope "home folks" will patronize it liberally.

WATER VALLEY, MISS.

SECOND DAY OF THE TOURNAMENT.

Crowning of the Queen of Love and Beauty and her Maids of Honor.

The Ovation and Address—Full Particulars.

WATER VALLEY, Miss., July 6, 1867.

Special Correspondence of the Appeal:

The weather for the second day's exercises was all that could be wished for—the sun shining brightly, and a cool, refreshing breeze all day. The attendance at the grounds was much larger than on the day previous, a large number having arrived by the early trains. About half past 9 o'clock the knights, in charge of Col. M. D. L. Stevens and his aids, with the Bolivar silver band, under the leadership of W. S. Brooks, an old "typo," appeared on the grounds. The knights rode around the course three times, to the music of a grand march; and here let me second the opinion that more graceful riding, and better music for the number engaged, it has never been my good fortune to witness or listen to; they were then drawn up at the speaker's stand, when the herald-at-arms, Dr. Harriss, introduced the orator of the day, Major W. R. Barksdale, who, in a clear, ringing voice, and with a forcible manner, spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The beauty and chivalry of the land—a vast concourse of spectators—is gathered to witness the manly and exciting sports of the tournament.

Greece had her games—olympic, pythic, nemean and isthmian, and so important was the celebration of these games, from an historical point of view, that on their periodic recurrence all engagements of peace or war were allowed to disappoint them. The pursuits of peace were suspended, and the pen mightier than the sword and shield in the deadly conflict between contending hosts was hushed, and the genius of their national goddess compelled to engage in friendly trials of strength and skill.

Rome only does history record a failure by the Athenians to celebrate the festival at Rhamis, Alexander the Great had seized and destroyed Thebes, and was the cause of the great national loss, and such the depth of the nation's grief, that they were restrained from celebrating which breath of only hilarity, merriment and rejoicing. And I confess, had the excesses of the Roman people been confined to the games, which breath of only hilarity, merriment and rejoicing, the excesses of more rational and sober minds would have been less severely censured than it is often my lot and pleasure to witness.

Beautiful cities and towns in great number flocked from the land, bringing with them their youthful, high born cavaliers and lovely women their courts, pride—slaughtered by a combined force of knights—and the victor crowned for the occasion, no aged mon-archial and sober minds would have been less severely censured than it is often my lot and pleasure to witness.

Beautiful cities and towns in great number flocked from the land, bringing with them their youthful, high born cavaliers and lovely women their courts, pride—slaughtered by a combined force of knights—and the victor crowned for the occasion, no aged monarch

MEMPHIS APPEAL

ANNABEL LEE AND LENORE.

Our readers ought to thank us for republishing these beautiful poems of Edgar A. Poe, which we read and reread months with always increasing admiration. They can never die, until the English language has become as dead as the Sanscrit:

ANNABEL LEE.

It was many and many a year ago,
In a Kingdom by the sea,
That a maiden there lived, whom you may know,
By the name of Annabel Lee;
And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to love and be loved by me.

I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea;
But we loved with a love that was more than love—
I and my Annabel Lee;
With a love that the winged seraphs in heaven
Coveted her and me.

And this was the reason that, long ago,
In this kingdom by the sea,
A wind blew out of a cl ud, chilling
My beautiful Annabel Lee;
So that her high-born kinsman came
And bore her away from me,
To shut her up in a sepulchre
In this kingdom by the sea.

The angels, not half so happy in heaven,
Went envying her and me:
Yes! that was the reason (as all men know,
In this kingdom by the sea)
That the wind came out of the cloud by night,
Chilling and killing my Annabel Lee.

But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we—
Of many far wiser than we;
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee.

For the moon never beams without bringing me dreams
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee;
And the stars never rise but I feel the bright eyes
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee;—
And so all the night-tide I lie down by the side
Of my darling—my darling—my life and my bride,
In the sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.

LENORE.

Ah! broken is the golden bowl—the spirit flown forever!
Let the bell toll!—a saintly soul floats on the Stygian river;
And, Guy de Vere, hast thou no tear?—weep now or never more!
See! on you drear and rigid bier low lies thy love, Lenore.
Come! let the burial rite be read—the funeral psalm be chanted!
An anthem for the queenliest dead that ever died so young.
A dirge for her the doubly dead in that she died so young.

"Wretches! ye loved her for her wealth and hated her for her pride,
And when she fell in feeble health, ye blessed her—that she died!
How shall the ritual, then, be read? the requiem how be sung
By you—by yours, the evil eye—by yours the slanderous tongue,
That did to death the innocence that died, and died so young?"

Peccavimus; but rave not thus; and let a Sabbath prayer ascend
Yet! Wail her early doom!
Mourn—but no murmur! O, the young!
Lenore hath "gone before," with Hope, that flew beside,
Leaving thee wild for the dear child that should have been thy bride—
For her the fair and debonair, that now so lowly lies,
The life upon her yellow hair but not within her eyes—
The life still there upon her hair—the death upon her eyes.

"Avaunt! to-night my heart is light. No dirge will I upraise,
But waft the angel on her flight with a pean of old days!
Let no bell toll!—lest her sweet soul, amid its hallowed mirth,
Should catch the note as it doth float up from the damned earth.
To friends above, from friends below the indignant ransomed and redeemed
Fling pæans far for the glad one ever more to be!"
From "Israfel."

And now to-day we muse and dream and wonder, here alone,
How virtue may be driven beyond the visible Virgin zone.
How Lenore, the fair Lenore, the maiden with the golden hair,
Hath gone before, with Hope, that flew beside, to Heaven and Prayer.
How she with these, and Seraphim, may be a teacher there.

Where is the pleasant village stream, where the dusky wherry glides
Adown the golden-tinted tide? Where the water lily hides
Her pensive head, and where the dell hath echoed to the tone
Of Lenore's matchless singing in the sweet days lang syne?
Where are the birds that piped to her? Dead, all dead long syne, long syne.

And the rivulet that sang to her, plaining that its bed was shallow,
Now murmurs o'er a pebbly course, brawls hoarsely to a sallow
Sluggish pool, where sedges grow, and water rats have their home,
Where herds come down to drink at noon, and where the shadows come
At sunset, of the alder bank that lines the road to Lenore's tomb.

Yes! all is gone that gave delight to her, and now the spot
Wherein she lies is all unknown to me, and unto you, I wot,
Is all unknown. Ah, well it is that sorrow's sacred rite
Is duly paid, so that the object of a pure love, holy quite,
Shall not be wronged by wanton feet. Thrice happy he whose plight
Permits him pay to holy dust the homage of his heart,
Who, dowered with all love can give, shall have naught to impart
In other offerings. Unto him who weeps not many prayers
Ascend to Heaven. Thrice happy he who, by the tomb, forbears
To mourn as doth a hireling, but who, leaving all to God,
Whose shadow on his path has lain, and will lie, all the road,
Trusts fully all things to His love who has the broadest back to bear,
Who views the spirit-land as home, and all the rest as air.

Not so with me. Despite the grave upon my darling's head,
To me she is not dead—not dead, but gone before, I said.
Up the river, and over the river, through the hazy air,
Behind the dim and misty piles that the dim and misty bear
Into the land of mist and snow, she passed from my despair.

And still my boat, that holds a freight of love and memories,
Goes up the river, and over the river, where the blue mist rises,
Behind the misty piles, and evermore, as I sail on,
Sees fairer regions rise beyond, and hears the unknown tone
Of Lenore welcoming me home to the beautiful Lenore.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
Memphis, Tenn., July 9, 1867.

This has been one of, if not the dullest, days of the season. Our banks report no change and very little doing. Deposits are low and discounts out of the question. Gold is steady at 37½c buying, with light offerings and no local demand.

In silver there are a few light sales daily for small pieces, but the aggregate would not amount to a fair sized lot. Selling at 27 to 28c.

City scrip has but few seekers. It has become almost a settled fact that no more pavement contracts will be let out by the city board of city officers. The buoyancy exhibited by this money was based entirely upon the supposition that contracts would be awarded and the scrip in this way be turned into interest bearing bonds. The bickerings, charges and counter charges indulged in by the board of mayor and aldermen have not only lost to them the respect of the entire community outside those interested in the contracts, but has injured the best of the city very seriously. Few dealers will buy any of the scrip, and what offer will pay for 60c to day, and sell at 68 to 70c.

County warrants are dull at 80 buying; selling at 85 to 86.

Police scrip is inactive. Very few brokers buy. Offering 66c; selling at 70 to 75c.

Bonds and stocks are offered, but there are no buyers.

Uncurrent money is steady and transactions light.

A meeting of the creditors of the Franklin insurance company took place at the hall of the Chamber of Commerce to-day. The result will be found in our local columns.
